THE NORTH CHINA DAILY NEWS, TUESDAY, AUGUST 25, 1936

With the approval of local authorities, a new monthly magazine will come into circulation soon. It is "aviator," a magazine of art and culture, which will be published in three languages: English, Russian and Chinese. The aim is to popularise aviation, complete explanation of technical achievements, the latest records, etc. The magazine will also have a general sport section. Sixty per cent. of the nett profits will be placed to the benefit of the Chinese National Aviation Association, and 30 per cent. to the Russian Aero-Club of Russian pilots, invalids of the Great War. The editor of the magazine is Colonel Hoodinkoff, ex-military pilot. The magazine will be issued once a month at the dates of drawing of Chinese National State Lottery. The offices of "The Aviator" are situated at 708 Avenue Joffre, Apartment 7.
